Two Avenues for Income Replacement

- Pandemic Unemployment Benefits
- Paycheck Protection Program
Unemployment Benefits
Unemployment Benefits – Traditional Situation for Self-Employed Persons

- Business owners, independent contractors and other self-employed workers are normally ineligible for unemployment benefits.
Unemployment Benefits – Temporary Extension of Benefits to Self-Employed Workers

- CARES Act temporarily provides business owners, independent contractors and other self-employed workers who are unable to work because of the COVID-19 crisis with unemployment benefits until December 31, 2020.
  - for purposes of unemployment there is no difference between someone who is an independent contractor, self-employed or a freelancer - all are eligible if requirements are met
Unemployment Benefits – Three Available Benefits

1. Regular state unemployment benefits based on level of income as if you were an employee
   - each state has its own maximum benefit amount based on level of income
     • lowest maximum - Mississippi $235
     • highest maximum - Washington $790
Unemployment Benefits – Three Available Benefits

2. An additional $600 per week on top of regular unemployment benefits through July 31, 2020
   - $835 maximum in Mississippi ($235 + $600 = $835)
   - $1,390 maximum in Washington ($790 + $600 = $1,390)
   - total benefits can exceed normal weekly income
Unemployment Benefits – Three Available Benefits

3. An additional 13 weeks of regular unemployment benefits beyond your state’s maximum benefit period
   - 42 states and Puerto Rico and Washington, D.C. provide 26 weeks
   - Montana – 28 weeks
   - Idaho – 21 weeks
   - S.C. and Arkansas – 20 weeks
   - Alabama – 14 weeks
   - Missouri – 13 weeks
   - Florida and N.C. – 12 weeks
Unemployment Benefits – Partial Benefits

- Many states provide partial unemployment benefits for persons whose are still working on a reduced basis
  - eligibility requirements vary based on the number of days worked in a week and the amount of earnings in a week
  - if you qualify for partial benefits you also qualify for the temporary additional $600 payment
Unemployment Benefits – No Waiting Period

- Benefits are available from the first day of unemployment
- Traditional one-week waiting period has been waived until December 31, 2020
Unemployment Benefits – Applying for Benefits

- File application for benefits with state unemployment agency
- Application process will vary from state-to-state
- Many states are still in the process of establishing application procedures
- File in the first week that you experience a loss of work
- Benefits can be retroactive to benefit week starting January 27, 2020
Unemployment Benefits – Proof of Self-Employment

- You will have to submit proof of self-employment
  - Form 1099s
  - Billing invoices to clients
  - Recent business advertisements
  - Business card
  - Building lease
Unemployment Benefits – Proof of Income

- The following can be used to prove income (last 12-18 months)
